PEACE AND CIVILITY
Originally developed by the Duluth Superior Area Community Foundation, The Civility Project was designed to urge members of a community to communicate in a more respectful and effective way. The campaign was not intended to end disagreements but to improve public discourse by simply reminding community members of the very basic principles of respect.
The UNL Peace + Civility Project aims to promote civility across the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. Specifically, promoting the core values of civil interactions by encouraging dialogue across the university.
The campaign was not intended to end disagreements but to improve public discourse by simply reminding community members of the very basic principles of respect.
Be sincere and repair damaged relationships.
When disagreeing, stick to the issues and don’t make a personal attack.
Welcome all groups of citizens working for the greater good of the community.
Look for opportunities to agree; don’t contradict just to do so.
Focus on others in order to better understand their points of view.
Be aware and attend to the world and the people around you.
Honor other people and their opinions, especially in the midst of disagreement.

Peace and Civility

SHOW RESPECT

Honor other people and their opinions, especially in the midst of disagreement.
Don’t shift responsibility and blame onto others; share disagreements publicly.
And don’t accept when others choose to do so.
